Creative ways to promote cognitive thinking using a series of ten comic booklets.

New resources by Dr. Margaret Carter and Josie Santomauro
Cool Comics are a fun method to teach children constructive ways of responding to/in social situations. The comics illustrate how to respond to these challenges using positive self-talk. Students are introduced to resolving social conflicts in a positive manner. Includes work area with prompts to assist with feelings, thinking and doing and a guide for adults to further discuss comic scenes with students.
